

John Lesley Ingram

November 8, 1956 - May 30, 2024

John L. Ingram (Johnny) born November, 1956 in Richmond, Virginia passed away May, 2024 in San Diego, California. He is survived by his three siblings: Robie Ingram, Bill Ingram and Meredith Monaghan. He joined the United States Navy after graduating from Lee Davis High School and was ultimately stationed in San Diego. He loved it there and lived most of his life there. He joked that since he was a torpedo repairman in the Navy he could open his own torpedo repair shop one day. John's true love was music. He was a gifted, self-taught guitarist and played in a number of rock and blues bands in both California and Virginia (including the Ingram Brothers).

He was a kind and caring man, quick with a laugh, loved by many and we will miss him.

Per his wishes, he will be laid to rest in the Miramar National Cemetery in San Diego.

“ John was one of a kind friend. He was a brother I will never forget. He had many talents that many never knew about. He was an investor. He could make a glue for anything. And boy let me tell ya, the guy could play his guitar. I loved him and I'm going to miss him RIP my brother.

“ I was so very sorry to hear of Johnny's passing. We spoke last May about connecting the next time he was back this way, to catch up and share some memories from Brandy Creek. When we were teenagers and I learned a new song or technique on the guitar, I would be excited to show off to him. Of course he would listen patiently (sort of) and then blow me away with his latest. I could never keep up. He had such a great ear for it. While I hadn't seen much of him over the years, he was a true childhood friend. 'Kind' was an apt description in his obituary. We were in a violent crash once when we were in high school. We walked away and walked home. I 'snuck' back into the house and went to sleep. A little while later, my parents and East Hanover Rescue Squad were standing in my bedroom asking if I had been in an accident. I swore that I hadn't, that I'd been asleep for hours. That's when Johnny stuck his head around the corner and said, I told them, Ken. I was worried about you. He had driven himself to the squad to get his arm checked out. He was a true friend, indeed. I miss him!
Much Grace to you Meridith, Bill and Robie. ❤️
